8. [redacted] Talked with James Woolsey, Senate Armed Services Committee staff, and cleared with him our draft reply to Senator Ervin's letter pertaining to certain documents taken from John Dean's safe deposit box.

We talked about General Walters' appearance before the Committee. Woolsey said he did not anticipate a long session tomorrow. However, the Committee felt there should be some testimony from the General in the Committee record with respect to the various memoranda he had prepared on his conversations with White House staff members and Acting FBI Director Gray.

10. [redacted] Received a call from Tom Kennedy, Asian and Pacific Affairs Subcommittee staff, House Foreign Affairs Committee, and in response to his request gave him a brief general rundown on Sam Adams. Since there is a possibility that Adams may be appearing either before the Subcommittee or before the full Committee in open session. I asked Kennedy if he would remind Adams of the necessary caveats concerning classified material and intelligence sources and methods. He said he would be glad to and that the Committee has no interest in reviewing such matters. They are interested, however, in Adams findings and statements concerning various matters that have been presented before the Committee by Defense Department representatives. I thanked Kennedy for the call.
